Pain is an unpleasant sensory and emotional experience associated with actual or potential tissue damage. Acute pain lasts for a short time and occurs following surgery, trauma or other condition. A person feels pain when specific nerves (nociceptors) detect tissue damage and transmit information about the damage along the spinal cord to the brain. If you touch a hot surface the sensory receptors in the skin send a message to the spinal cord and on to the brain where the information is processed and the sensation of pain is registered. An ache is discomfort associated with a specific part of the body, such as a headache or stomach-ache, that continues for some time. Pain is usually stronger, more sudden and more difficult to ignore, for example when a person cuts his/her hand or hits his/her head on something.

Clove contains the active ingredient Eugenol which is a natural analgesic (a substance that produces diminished sensation to pain without loss of consciousness). It helps to numb and reduce pain to ease for example, toothache. Eugenol also has natural anti-inflammatory properties which reduces swelling and irritation in an affected area.

The anti-inflammatory effect of Lemon reduces inflammation which relieves pain in the area, such as the joints. Lemon is also a rich source of anti-oxidants and helps to flush out toxins in the body. Studies have shown that Cinnamon is a very effective natural remedy to relieve pain and reduce inflammation.

Rosemary is very effective in the management of pain and helps with the treatment of headache, muscle and bone pain. It reduces inflammation and relaxes painful and stiff muscles and joints.

Eucalyptus eases pain and inflammation associated with conditions such as osteoarthritis (degenerative joint disease) and rheumatoid arthritis (chronic inflammatory disorder affecting many joints).

Grapeseed oil is an effective treatment to significantly reduce pain due to being a potent source of antioxidants and anti-inflammatory properties.
